WE NOMINATE

George Finger Thomas, one of the Princeton Community's great teachers, who this month—after 13 years of yeoman's service—is relinquishing the chairmanship of Princeton University's thriving Department of Religion in order to devote full time to teaching and scholarship. Called to Princeton in 1940 to inaugurate a long-contemplated program of instruction in religious thought, the 59-year old Thomas (60 on July 31st) has been the mainspring in the remarkable development of a full-fledged department offering both graduate and undergraduate programs of study and often serving as a model for other American universities.

With Thomas' appointment as Professor of Religious Thought, a post he was to hold until he was advanced to the M. Taylor Pyne Professorship in 1954, Princeton concluded a search it had been carrying forward for five years, ever since a faculty committee had urged that the study of religion be accorded an "independent place in the curriculum along with the other Humanities." Thomas' hope that the program he was introducing here "might have consequences beyond Princeton" was documented within the next 12 months by the distribution throughout the country of some 6,000 copies of his inaugural public lecture, "Religion in an Age of Secularism."

The Department of Religion, formally established in 1946 under the guidance of the Texas-born Thomas, has mushroomed to the point that in 1958-59 more than 800 undergraduates are enrolled in courses given by 11 full-time faculty members, including Princeton's "third professor of religion" and Thomas' successor, Robert Paul Ramsey, a Princetonian since 1944. Four years ago Thomas and his associates took a giant step forward with the adoption of a broad program of graduate study dedicated to meeting one of the nation's growing manpower needs in higher education, "men capable of teaching religion, and its relations to other fields of study"

Thomas' standing in his field is suggested by the evaluation made of his most recent major publication "Christian Ethics and Moral Philosophy," by the eminent theologian Reinhold Niebuhr. This volume, according to Niebuhr, "is so fair and comprehensive in its treatment of various thinkers in both the Christian and secular traditions that it no doubt will become a valuable and much sought after textbook in many universities and seminaries." In the past two decades hardly a semester has passed without representatives of some college visiting Princeton to consult Thomas on founding or strengthening a department of religion.

A Rhodes Scholar at Oxford in the early 1920's, following his graduation from Southern Methodist University, Thomas took his doctoral degree at Harvard and subsequently served as professor of philosophy at Dartmouth and the University of North Carolina. Thomas, long active in Princeton's Trinity Church and for nearly three decades a Fellow of the National Council on Religion in Higher Education, is a past president of the American Theological Society. In 1954 he was a member of the "Commission of 25" of the World Council of Churches charged with laying the theological groundwork for Council's Second World Assembly.

For continuing and distinguished service to scholar and layman alike as one of this country's most forceful interpreters of religious thought; for his pioneering leadership in the development of the study of religion as a foundation discipline in the humanities; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

"LAST FRONTIERS"

Shrinking Borough. Tuesday evening's three-hour session of the Borough Planning Board brought the municipality (with a total land area of approximately 1.76 square miles) perceptibly closer to the subdivision for residential purposes of two of its few remaining "open areas" — the 12-acre tract in the proximity of Township's a-building Riverside School and a four-acre plot on North Harrison Street.

The former area, roughly bounded by Cedar Lane, Nassau Street, Riverside Drive and the long-discussed extension of Prospect Avenue, calls for the eventual construction of upwards of 35 quality homes by Brisby Builders, Inc., of Metuchen, while the latter, a 14-lot proposition for single-family dwellings, is being developed by Princetonian Salvatore LaPlaca.

Both proposals, subject of protracted Tuesday discussions, including several residents of the Cedar Lane area, are tentatively scheduled for Planning Board public hearings the evening of Tuesday, July 7, at 8 in the second-floor auditorium of the Borough "Community House," corner of Witherspoon and Green Streets.

A major consideration in the "Cedar Lane District" is the avowed reluctance of Borough Mayor and Council to "open up" Prospect Avenue from Cedar Lane to Riverside, a step expressly requested by the Township Planning Board in view of the Township's already-mapped willingness to create the Sycamore Lane link between Riverside and Harrison.

Contingent parts of Mr. LaPlaca's Harrison Street "package," that will require an additional public hearings at a later date, are the construction of an office-building contiguous to the "new" Borough firehouse and garage and the development of residential areas behind the firehouse-garage, a now-undeveloped sector opening on Spruce Street Extension.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

For Athletic Achievement. In widely diversified fields of endeavor, Princetonians made news this past week when their skill in athletics was reflected on the sports pages. Among them were teen-age baseball players, a veteran coach in his 60's, the nation's top woman squash player and collegians whose mark was made in track, wrestling, football and baseball.

At Randalls Island, New York, last weekend, Princeton High School graduate Nick Kovalakides won the IC4-A javelin championship, one of the nation's top intercollegiate titles. Now at the University of Maryland, Kovalakides hurled the spear in the tradition of the original Olympic Games 222 feet, ½ inch — a mark somewhat better than that ever recorded by any collegian at Old Nassau.

At the same meet, Princeton sophomore Dick Edmunds continued to rewrite the record books by again lowering the University record for the 440-yard run. (Story and picture, page 24.)

Elsewhere on weekend sports pages were the rating of Mrs. W. Pepper Constable, national woman's squash champion, as the nation's top-ranking woman squash player, and a feature story on Richard R. Swinnerton, As recorded here last week, the veteran Princeton coach (gymnastics, squash, tennis) has compiled an outstanding record during the 33 years he has been on the University scene.

At Exeter, N.H., the baseball teams of the nation's two oldest preparatory schools, Exeter and Phillips Andover, partook in a rarity in their long rivalry — a ten-inning, 1-1 tie. Princeton was represented at Andover by left fielder Webb Harrison, at Exeter by third baseman John Cook and pitcher "Pony" Fraker.

In baseball at Princeton, the only Ivy League player to win a place on the NCAA District II all-star baseball team was Princetonian Carl Belz. (See box, page 24). And in Cambridge, Mass., Princetonian Robert Foster made news by winning one of Harvard's top athletic awards for proficiency and leadership in football and wrestling. (Story and picture, page 21.)

New Use For The P.J. & B.

The ever-colorful P.J. & B., one of the world's shortest railroad runs but backed by an endless variety of colorful stories, got a new chapter written for it last weekend. Friends of Princeton undergradunte Ellis P. Waller, who was homeward bound for the summer, gave him a party that lasted for three round trips to Princeton Junction and Back.

While the regulnr passengers rode in one car, the party—enlivened by a jazz band—held forth in the other. The afternoon schulc being what it is, the six three-mile trips and intervening waits at each end consumed a full three hours. Waller finally went south on the 6:49, the party broke up and the P.J. & B. returned to normal—a feat not always simple in a college town.

PERSONALITIES

Dr. Allen O. Whipple, 30 No. Stanworth Drive, whose "retirement" some years ago will be marked in mid-summer by a new venture—a six-month journey to the Near East, where he will investigate the possible sites of medieval medical schools and hospitals. Making Jerusalem his headquarters, he will visit Iran, Turkey, Egypt and Syria, seeking to determine where the forerunners of his profession were active in those countries between 500 and 1200 A.D., and making his final report to the American Societies of Oriental Research.

Mrs. William J. Clarke, 76 Nassau Street, whose 36-year role in the Princeton business scene will come to an end next week with the liquidation of stock in her Princess Shop. Wife of Princeton's long-time baseball coach, she has announced plans to sell her antiques and other unusual wares at a two-day auction to be conducted in the Princeton Shopping Center. (See classified advertising section for details.)

Harold L. Humes, Rosedale Road, named this past week to the presidency of the world-wide, 1100-member Building Research Institute. Vice-president of Trenton's Baldwin-Hill Co. and recently accorded the coveted honor of election to the National Academy of Science, Mr. Humes will guide the Institute's research program that is designed to assist all associated with the nation's multi-billion dollar building industry.

ROUNDUP

May went into the Weather Bureau's record books as unusually humid and represented by temperatures that on two occasions set record highs for the day . . . the temperature range had a swing of almost 50 degrees, from the low 40's to the high 80's . . . Tuesday's day-long rain did much to break the drought that had taken a foothold strong enough to begin parching some lawns in the area . . . precipitation for the first five months of the year was almost six inches below normal.

Despite the lack of water, the County Mosquito Control Commission will keep battle flags flying in its ceaseless campaign to still the hungry critters' annoying hum . . . Township areas to be sprayed against hatching larvae include Lake Carnegie, near Longview and Lake Drives; Herrontown Circle; State and Red Hill Roads; Ridgeview Circle; Pretty Brook Road; Wilson and Westerly Roads; Winant Road; Alexander Street, including the Princeton Water Co., property there . . . periodic checks are also made of all stagnant water, with spray programs following when the presence of larvae is indicated.

The 20-day old Public Service strike continues to affect homes near Princeton . . . some 700 of them in Lawrence Township were in darkness for 90 minutes around midnight Tuesday when power was cut at a sub-station . . . residents were further concerned because the siren used by the Lawrence Road Fire Co. was inoperative without electricity but volunteers stood by until the emergency ended.

The two Memorial Day parades, staged by Princeton Post 76, American Legion, and Khufu Temple 120, Shriners of Princeton, and affiliated lodges, gave the community more activity of this nature than it has known in years . . . police report no incidents other than a pair of missing children found and restored to parental care . . . Mayor Male hails the occasion in his weekly report (page 19), while another Princetonian objects to the "army of small boys on bicycles" on whom the significance of the occasion was lost (see Mailbox, page 28.)

Stony Brook bridge on Mercer Road claimed another victim (and suffered additional damage) early Saturday morning when Trentonian Arthur Wilson sailed into it in his car . . . skid marks running 69 feet before impact were chalked up by Township Police . . . driver and passenger were not seriously hurt.

Monday afternoon was marked by a minor accident on Broadmead opposite Princeton Country Day School . . . Elizabeth Burger, 14 Charlton Street, received lacerations and was treated at Princeton Hospital after a car operated by Anthony J. Ferrara, 230 Witherspoon Street, struck a telephone pole.

Next day, little Cindy Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Davison, 103 Harrison Street, swallowed a number of pills from the family medicine chest and recovered quickly after a stomach-pumping at the hospital.

The State Department of Agriculture reports that the average value of farm land in New Jersey is the highest in the nation — driven constantly upward by the sale of farm properties for residential and industrial use . . . it lists at $568 per acre, more than five times the national average of $108, and up a solid 10 per cent in the past 12 months.

The news is of small consolation to poultrymen in the State, who are facing depressed prices worse than at any time since 1935 . . . page one stories in many daily newspapers are drawing attention to the plight of the New Jersey poultryman, who is caught between mounting costs of his own and steadily-dropping prices quoted by egg farmers shipping their hen fruit here from the south and mid-west.

Residents of the Cedar Lane area have reported a "Peeping Tom" to Borough Police, who are in possession of a bicycle believed to be the prowler's property . . . sentence has not yet been passed in Princeton Township on the four teen-agers who set a cat afire with lighter fluid . . . Magistrate Louis R. Gerber is awaiting results of mental tests the quartet from Rocky Hill and Hartlingen were required to take before announcing his decision.

Last winter, residents near Library Place succeeding in quieting a neighbor's caterwauling cats through a plea in TOWN TOPICS' classified ads . . . now comes this request from elsewhere in town: "Will person who plays 5:30 - 6:30 a.m. weekday radio please turn down volume? Others are slug-a-beds."

A "FANTASIA" OF FUN

At Hospital Fete. The theme of Saturday's Hospital Fete is "Fantasia," and the annual event will feature entertainment for all ages, including television stars for children, rock 'n roll for teenagers and things to buy for adults. The Fete will be held at Fitzpatrick Field next to Palmer Stadium from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"Clarabell," the Howdy-Doody Clown and "Corny Cob" of the Ruff and Reddy Show, will appear in person at the entertainment tent, arriving in Princeton by air and flying over Fitzpatrick Field en route. Other attractions offered at the Fete will include a Children's Midway with shooting gallery, tattooing and similar diversions, a Tiny Tots Amusements with rides scaled down to very young children, a 4 p.m. Jam Session under Elias Baker which anyone with an instrument may join, an RCA electronics show and a Lane of Shops offering food, flowers, toys and gifts for sale.

Lester Siatoff will preside over a "Collectors' Auction," offering antiques, prints and objets d'art. At 2 p.m., Bob Cairo's five-piece band from Trenton will play rock 'n roll for an hour while teen agers dance.

Chairmen of the Midway are Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Hector W. Griswold, Daniel Longhi, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. K. Dexter Miller, Walker Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. Joel White.

FIVE CARS IN ACCIDENT

Tuesday Night on Nassau St. The rain that fell Tuesday was welcomed by virtually everyone in this area save the owners of five automobiles involved in an unusual accident on Nassau Street. The low visibility and slippery conditions were a factor in the series of collisions, which were unproductive of injury to anyone involved.

Borough police report that Miss Mary McMorris 18, of 90 Bayard Lane, began the chain when she turned from the campus driveway near the First Presbyterian Church left into Nassau Street. In quick succession, her car struck another driven by Mrs. Ruth G. Wurst, of Lebanon; bounced from that to hit one owned by Lawrence J. Ferrara, 133 Harding Avenue, Trenton; and then a third car, operated by Roger D. Sullivan, 11-A Haslet Avenue.

Meanwhile, the Ferrara car, its door blown open by the impact, struck a parked car owned by Valentine Ranallo, 183 Linden Lane. Damage to all of the vehicles was listed as considerable, and three of them had to be towed away.

Sergeant Robert J. Anderson and Patrolman James Kopliner investigated. Miss McMorris will be charged with failing to yield the right of way.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEETS

On Rabies and Water Supply. The problems posed by rabies, stray dogs and polluted water systems were all discussed at last week's meeting of the Township Board of Health.

The Board passed unanimously an ordinance requiring the vaccination against rabies of all Township dogs. The ordinance specifies that all dogs must be vaccinated within the six-month period before they are licensed.

At the meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Klinger, Quaker Road, protested the ordinance as harmful to dogs and as an invasion of fundamental rights. Dr. Archibald Sheeran, chairman of the Board of Health, pointed out that very few dogs are affected by rabies shots and that a clause in the ordinance exempts dogs whose veterinarians believe that a rabies shot would be harmful. He also commented that rabies in humans is a fatal disease.

It was announced that 338 Township dogs and 329 Borough dogs had been vaccinated at the recent rabies clinic. Mrs. Marcella Farley, health officer, reported 20 unlicensed dogs in the Township and said that action would be taken to have their owners obtain licenses. Dr. Sheerin told Mrs. Herman Rehfeldt, Cherry Hill Road, who had expressed concern about stray dogs, that the Township hoped to secure the services of a dog warden as soon as possible.

Pollution. The recurring question of well pollution in the Township was raised again when Dr. Elmer Alpert, Autumn Hill Road, said there is the possibility of an epidemic in the future if the Township does not take drastic steps to insure a potable water supply.

"We don't know the extent of pollution or the extent of the danger," Dr. Sheeran said, and William Marvel, Township Committee member of the Board, said he feels that there is no need for haste. He said that pollution is probably not so general as Dr. Alpert believes.

Dr. Alpert offered the use of his laboratory facilities for extensive analyses of polluted wells and the Board of Health authorized Mrs. Farley to supply whatever samples are needed.

Mrs. Farley asked the Board and the Township engineer, Calvin Schofield, about the possibility of extending central sewers to five houses in the Princeton-Kingston Road area because one, the property of Mrs. Raymond Carter, was found to have an overflowing septic system that tested "positive."

Charles Brown, Kingston Road and Frank Notestein, Roper Road, asked for more time before being required to connect to a new central sewer line. They told the Board that their septic systems are sound and that there are no wells in the area which might be polluted. Dr. Notestein said he does not feel he should pay the cost of connecting to the sewer when his property is not affected. The Board took the cases under advisement.

COMMENCEMENT TUESDAY

At Seminary. One hundred and forty-seven will receive degrees at the 147th annual commencement of Princeton Theogical Seminary at 10:30 a.m. on Tuesday in the Princeton University Chapel. Degrees to be awarded include Bachelor of Divinity, Master of Theology, Master of Religious Education and Doctor of Theology.

The graduates will be addressed by the Rev. Dr. John C. Smith, associate general secretary for ecumenical mission of the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations of the United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Peter K. Emmons, president of the Board of Trustees of the Seminary, is director of the commencement.

The Rev. Dr. John A. Mackay, president of the Seminary, will give a word of farewell to the graduates. This is the last commencement over which Dr. Mackay, who is retiring in August, will preside.

PLANNING BOARD MEETS

in Princeton Township. The problem of "finalizing" the Township's Master Plan faced the Planning Board and the Citizens Advisory Committee, meeting on Wednesday, June 3, in executive session. Another meeting has been scheduled for June 17.

New roads and re-alignments, drawn in a general way on the map, must be pin-pointed and certain areas of study, such as multiple housing, must be considered from scratch. It is possible, according to one Township official, that there will be no multiple housing report until November 1. The Master Plan does not have to be adopted as a whole: its various sections can be adopted one at a time if necessary.

At last Monday's Planning Board meeting, the Munek subdivision preliminary plan was approved, subject to several conditions including the dedication to the Township of a triangular piece of land near the intersection of the Crest Road and its proposed re-alignment. This parcel would be used for a park.

EIGHT LOSE LICENSES

For Speed Violations. Eight residents of the Princeton area have had their licenses suspended by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

William J. Wright, Jr., 24, 220 Mercer Street, has lost his driving privileges for eight months. His record shows four speeding convictions, one for careless driving and one for passing a "stop" sign. Three speeding convictions cost Thurland T. Wilkinson, Jr., 18, 32 Shadybrook Lane, his license for five months.

The following have received 30-day revocations under the State's "60-70" program (mandatory when a driver exceeds either a 50 or 60-mile speed limit by ten miles an hour): Noel M. Meyer, 27, 22 Carnegie Drive; Milton A. Baker, 17, R. D. 1, Monmouth Junction; Dennis E. Ebeling, 23, Route 206, Belle Mead; Clarence H. Dahl, 22, Kingston; Edward C. Rose, Jr., 39, 263 Mercer Road, and Robert Rayhon, 36, R. D. 2, Cranbury.

Remember April
Wasn't it wet?
But May was dry
As you can get.

— CACTUS PETE

Until Tuesday's day-long rain, there was some question as to whether the lengthening dry spell would leave nothing but Pete's favorite flower growing in these parts. The good that April's moisture had done all but vanished in the past 30 days, as anticipated rainfall was far below normal.

This week gave the greenery a long drink and Green Thumbs took cheer as they noted that more than an inch of rain was recorded during the 24 hours ending Wednesday morning. That should be all for the rest of the week, the Man noted, with temperatures near normal of 67 through Sunday. Look, he said, for a gradually warming trend but no unpleasant humidity.

SUMMER SEASON PLANNED By University Players. A full Summer season schedule of eight plays and seven concerts has been arranged by the University Players, it was announced this week by David H. Sawyer, producer. The season will open June 27 and continue through August 22.

The schedule of plays, all of which will be presented at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University Campus, will begin with a production of J. M. Synge's comedy, "Playboy of the Western World." The play, which will run through July 4, will be directed by Philip Minor.

Other July productions will be: July 7 to 11, "The Play's The Thing," a sophisticated farce by Ferenc Molnar; July 14 to 18, Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," recently produced in New York; July 21 to 25, "The Philanderer," by George Bernard Shaw, and July 28 to August 1, a "surprise package" of three one-act plays.

Scheduled for presentation in August are Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday," the Broadway hit that brought fame to Judy Holliday; Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," and Wilson's "The Boy Friend," a satire on the Roaring Twenties.

Directors of the eight plays will be Mr. Minor, Mario Siletti and Charles Schultz. Scores for the Molnar, Beckett and Shakespeare shows will be composed by Richard Cumming.

Concert Schedule. The seven concerts, all to be held on Monday evenings, will be presented in 10 McCosh Hall. They are: July 6, Pearl Primus and her company of modern dancers; July 13, Mathilde McKinney and Edward T. Cone, pianists, in a special concert of four-hand music; July 20, recital by Janice Harsanyi, soprano; July 27, Karen Dale, "Songs With Guitar;" August 3, The Kraeuters, duos for violin and cello and piano trios; August 10, Donald Gramm, bass-baritone, in a program of song cycles, and August 17, Joyce Flissler, violinist, in a sonata recital.

Season tickets for the entire group of plays and concerts are available at $29.50 each. Series tickets for the plays alone are $19, and for the concerts alone, $13. These may be ordered by mail from the University Players, Murray Theatre. Tickets for individual events are also on sale, at $2.50 for each play and $2 for each concert.

IMPRESARIO: David H. Sawyer, producer of the University Players, this week announced the group's Summer plans for presentation of eight plays and seven concerts.

The University Players, founded in 1928, have featured in the past such notable performers as Henry Fonda, Joshua Logan and Margaret Sullavan. While performances were suspended at various times during the depression, World War II and the Korean War, full schedules have been presented every Summer since 1963.

"TEMPEST" SCHEDULED For Presentation In Fall. A production of William Shakespeare's "The Tempest" by the American Shakespeare Festival Players will be included in its Fall schedule of attractions, it was announced this week by Dana Productions. Dana Productions, which was recently incorporated, will be known in the future as Dana Attractions, Inc.

"The Tempest" will feature Arnold Moss, one of the country's leading Shakespearean players. The appearance of the American Festival Players here will be part of a nationwide tour under the direction of S. Hurok. Also scheduled for presentation next season by Dana Attractions, Inc., is a recital by ballad singer Richard Dyer-Bennet. Both will be at McCarter Theatre.

Final show to be staged by the Dana group this season is "A Lovely Light," to be presented Friday night, June 12, at McCarter Theatre. A dramatic portrait of poetess Edna St. Vincent Millay, the show stars Dorothy Stickney, known for her roles as Vinnie in "Life With Father" and as the Queen Mother in the television spectacular, "Cinderella." Director of "A Lovely Light" is Howard Lindsay, Miss Stickney's husband, who created the role of Clarence Day in "Life With Father."

Tickets to "A Lovely Light" are on sale now at the University Store and may also be ordered by mail from Dana Productions, Box 3, Princeton.

"BELLS" AT MUSIC CIRCUS Tent Premiere for Musical. The hit musical, "Bells Are Ringing," starring Billie Worth and directed by her husband, Donald Burr, is the current attraction at St. John Terrell's Music Circus in Lambertville. It is the first tent production of the show, which will run through Sunday, June 28.

The Music Circus program for the rest of the summer includes "The New Merry Widow," June 30-July 5; Louis Armstrong, July

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Young Philadelphians (June 3-6) is a better than average black-and-white film featuring the highly talented Paul Newman. It is, in fact, only the acting of Newman and co-star Barbara Rush that lifts this picture out of mediocrity, for the plot, loosely adapted from Richard Powell's novel, "The Philadelphian," is cast in the familiar Horatio-Alger-plus-sex mold.

The early scenes are flashbacks to 1924 which provide a sort of prologue. Diane Brewster, poor but sexy, weds the scion of a Main Line society family, who subsequently deserts her. After his departure, Miss Brewster has a child, fathered by an old, great and good friend, Brian Keith. This established, we switch to the present and find the son, Newman, poor but sexy, working for Keith's contracting firm and thinking Keith is just a friend of his mother's. The lad, you see, has been brought up with the Main Line society name.

When Newman falls in love with Miss Rush, daughter of a wealthy lawyer, all but the slowest members of the audience should be able to trace the ironic parallels. The film is a Warner Brothers release, directed by Vincent Sherman and written by James Gunn.

Compulsion (June 7-9) is a screen adaptation of Meyer Levin's best-selling novel, a thinly-disguised account of the 1924 Loeb-Leopold murder case. Produced by Richard D. Zanuck, Darryl's little boy, the film stars Orson Welles in the Clarence Darrow role, Dean Stockwell and Bradford Dillman as the youthful killers and Diane Varsi, that oppressively reluctant young lady, as Stockwell's girl friend.

The plot is the familiar story of two brilliant but warped youths who murder a young child to prove they are Nietzchean supermen. The killing itself is never shown, a rare piece of good taste for Hollywood, and the significant scenes of the film take place in the courtroom. The film closes with one of the longest uninterrupted speeches ever committed to celluloid, Welles' brilliant revindication of Darrow's argument against capital punishment. The acting throughout is excellent and Richard Fleischer has directed skillfully. This picture, which is in black-and-white CinemaScope, will undoubtedly figure in next year's Academy Award presentations. Recommended.

Some Like It Hot (June 10-16) is the best comedy of the year, a wild, star-studded farce featuring Marilyn Monroe, Tony Curtis and Jack Lemmon, with smaller roles filled by Joe E. Brown, George Raft and Pat O'Brien. The entire plot involves no more than the fact that Lemmon and Curtis find it necessary to join an all-girl band in order to escape gangland vegeance (the scene is Chicago in the 1920's), but Billy Wilder's sparkling direction has turned it into a vehicle of rare humor.

The acting of the principals is fine, and Miss Monroe, as Sugar Kane, the band's vocalist, again shows her intuitive talent for light

HOSPITALITY

From The Gourmet. The bride and the veteran housekeeper will both welcome the hostess gifts that are now available at Princeton Gourmet, Nassau and Harrison.

We liked the straw and grass pieces that have been made by village artisans in India and Thailand. According to the story a designer has worked out the patterns of these trays and mats and turned them over to a whole Indian village to make. Presumably the same kind of arrangement has been made with the Thais. At any rate, the products are inexpensive, interesting if not dazzling, and perfectly suited to summer entertaining.

One piece is a rattan placemat tray, the size of a place mat, with a one-inch gallery which serves as a handle. The rattan has been woven over wood so that the tray is firm enough to hold dishes without making them wobble.

Comes in red and black or citron and black for $3.50. Give one to each guest next time you have a buffet.

Place mats for only 35 cents are next on this list of far eastern accessories. These mats are woven of sweet grass in grassy shades of green, blue or blue-green with occasional lacings of coral. Blue, red or black fringe edges each one and the fringe is all hand-tied.

Then there's a collection of small doormats from India, made of sisal in western color combinations like blue and green, tan and gold, black and white, lime and orange. These porch or summer doorway mats are $2.95 and with each one you get a piece of rubberized mesh the same size as the mat to keep your foot from straying off the straight and narrow.

An umbrella-shaped straw food cover from Bankok completes the collection. These are two sizes, each woven of wide mesh straw with a tassel waving from the peak. Looks like a straw hat to us.

Haiti, a world away, sends along some salad bowls made of monkey pods. Not monkey pod wood, but the pod itself. They come in various shades of tan and brown depneding on the natural color of the particular pod. The inside of the bowl is light, outside a very dark brown. The pieces are free in form with a black rope circle or black rope feet.

California stone-ware in teal green or dull gold has been designed with utmost simplicity with a brown edge outlining each piece. There is a five-piece place setting and there are three casseroles including a small one which will hold just enough for two.

From England the Gourmet has imported a set of matched double boilers consisting of a heavy china insert and a cast aluminum bottom. The heavy china is splendid for slow-cookers like Hollandaise, Bearnaise and so on.

The Swiss eat fondue from a small brass pot designed with wide bottom shaping up to narrow top so the grease will not spatter out. An alcohol burner keeps things hot, a plastic handle keeps things cool. This brass pot is for two; fondue makes the heart grow fonder.

Those who brew Irish coffee will have to choose between a plain white ironstone Irish coffee cup and a white one with minute green Shamrocks all around. Both are the size of a double demitasse. Or a tasse, if you want to be semantic about it.

Chapeau Pour Gigi. Little straw hats like the ones young French ladies used to wear are quite in evidence these days. The Betty Wright Shop has all kinds of flat-top straws with big, turned up brims and long streamers. To be worn with a wide-eyed look and no bubble gum.

One is red straw with a black bow that apparently ties under the chin, so far as we can tell. Another is brown straw with bails of fringe bouncing from its hatband.

For people who do chew bubble gum, the shop has a sailor hat.

For Collectors

Thirty imposing volumes of Harper's, bound in leather, are on the collector's shelf at Witherspoon Art and Book, Spring Street. These volumes will be particularly interesting to amateur historians of the Civil War because they cover the years 1851-1865.

A later era is represented by two large volumes called "Picturesque America," published in 1872. These two massive books, each the size of a family Bible, contain an introduction by William Cullen Bryant and many splendid engravings of Niagara Falls, mountain scenes, sea-scapes and the like.

The Humorous "Graphic Pictures" by Randolph Caldecott rounds out the colector's collection. This slim volume of prints by the well-known English artist was published in 1883 and has recently been acquired by Witherspoon Art and Book.

And if your budget allows you to collect only paperbacks, the Shop has some new binders from England: recover three books for 98c and put the names on the spines in gold.

comedy. While this department holds no brief for most female impersonators, the handling of the gimmick in this film should offend no one.

"Some Like It Hot" is a series of funny scenes, the best of which is probably Wilder's hilarious re-enactment of the St. Valentine's Day massacre, with George Raft leading the gunmen. The fact that this scene comes off as perfectly as it does is the highest tribute to everyone connected with this outstanding picture. Recommended.

THE GARDEN

Love Is My Profession (June 3-6) should provide a triumphant return at the Garden for Brigitte Bardot and, while still hardly a memorable effort, it is the best picture she has made. The story, suggested by a George Simenon novel, is concerned with sex, — honest sex, dishonest sex, purchased sex, clinical sex. This information is given to indicate you just might want to leave the kiddies with a babysitter, but the film avoids sordidness with pouting, Gallic good humor. For art lovers, constant and near-complete scenic views of Mlle. Bardot's person are included.

The plot should tax no one's powers of concentration. Brigitte, a part-time prostitute, is accused of assault and battery. Jean Gabin, a top lawyer, agrees to defend her in return for those little concessions she is so well-equipped to yield. She goes along with the plan, but her heart, unlike the rest of her, belongs to a moody young medical student. The reader should be able to fill in the resulting complications in 25 words or less.

CIRCUS IS COMING: The Lions Club will sponsor two performances of Hunt Brothers Circus Sunday at 2 and 8 p.m. at the Shopping Center.

Through it all, the acting is competent and Claude Autant has done a nicely paced job of direction. "Love Is My Profession" is in French with English titles. Students of French, incidentally, may be amused to learn that the original title was "En Cas de Malheur."

Sabrina (June 8) is a warmly humorous film which proves that a poor girl can make good if she's Audrey Hepburn, and that the old world isn't as bad as it's made out to be. The picture has moments when we wished things weren't quite so misty, but it does project an undeniable charm. Besides Miss Hepburn, the stars are Humphrey Bogart and William Holden.

This is the last in the Garden's spring series of Monday revivals of outstanding films from the past. The series has been an excellent one, with two or three hits for each near-miss, and the Garden management deserves commendation for the idea. Hopes are that it will be resumed in the fall.

The Mistress (June 9-13) is a delicately made Japanese film about the universal problems of a woman in love, with Hideko Takamine, Japan's best-known actress, giving a sensitive performance in the title role. The picture is in Japanese with English titles. Recommended.

For a dollar, you may have a piece of pastel net, flocked or appliqued with dogwood blossoms, to wear over your head in a stiff evening breeze. It has a pastel ribbon which ties under your chin. The net goes across the head loosely and does not in the least resemble a bahushka: $1.95.

Gabey's acrilan knit shirts are for sportswomen who do not need to worry about net over the hair. These shirts have convertible collars, short sleeves and various designs like crossed flags on the pocket or red, white and blue stripes around the collar. One is a boucle knit with blue and red collar bands. Each shirt, $4.95.

For hot nights, Betty Wright suggests a drip dry shorty nightgown with a wide neckline and a print of primroses. Another piece consists of a straight hanging camisole top with very short sleeves and a lot of lace and embroidery. Wear it with a snug pajama that has a three-quarter leg.

Ladies whose hair does not respond well to bright sun will like the white terry-cloth toque, laced with gold, that covers the head completely. Slip it on after you remove your bathing cap, or wear it all the time if you're not swimming.

Publick Invited. You probably know about the Lennox Shop on Route 202 at Mount Airy, near Lambertville. In this shop, you may buy all kinds of authentic reproductions of early American furniture, including lamps and accessories.

The Lennox Shop now has a new woodworking shop behind the country store in Lambertville and the move has enabled the owners to open up a new warehouse—showroom, if you translate from the 18th century — which gives considerable more room to display more furniture.

Most Lennox Shop lamps have, in the past, been one-of-a-kind, designed for use with Lennox pine furniture. The shop now has similar lamps made by a manufacturer who can turn them out at considerable lower prices than custom made lamps.

One example of the new lamp collection is a Mariner Lamp, with a sou'wester sailor standing in his boat, supporting the lamp standard against his back and shaded by the lamp shade.

brim turned down, with appliques of bare felt feet pattering all over the top. Each foot is a different color, each about three inches long.

On the brim, it says "1-2 Cha-Cha-Cha." Hats are white, red, black or navy with contrasting feet.

In a slightly different vein, Betty Wright has something called a Shoulderette which you wear if you have on a strapless gown. It's a length of pastel net shirred with rosebuds and arranged with velvet ties on each end. Tie it over your shoulders.

It won't keep out a gale, but it will make you feel somewhat more dressed. Price $2.98, all kinds of colors.

Next week, the service organization will observe "Ladies Day," with wives of members attending. Katherine Buble, a Rotary Foundation Fellow, will speak on "The Women's Point of View of Peris."

THE WATER'S FINE

"Y" Pool All Set. A full schedule of classes and free swimming periods will begin on Monday, June 22, when the new swimming pool at the Princeton YMCA opens. An open house has been scheduled for Saturday, June 20, from 2 to 6 and the public is invited to attend and to watch a sample of the aquatic activities to be available in the new pool.

The pool has been filled for over a week while engineers check it for possible structural weaknesses. So far none have been found. The four-lane pool measures 75 feet, one-half inch, by 30 feet. That extra half inch in length qualifies it for any official records which might be made in swimming meets, according to Robert Bredenburg, aquatic director of the "Y".

Two or three daily tests are made to make sure that the water in the pool is clean, its 135,000 gallons of water are filtered and re-used so that the only water that has to be replaced is water lost through evaporation and water taken from the pool by dripping swimmers.

Within the pool building, the "Y" has a men's exercise room (unequipped as yet), and locker and dressing rooms for men and women. The pool itself cost $190,000 and the whole building $475,00.

Use of the pool is limited to "Y" members: men, women or children. For the summer, both Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. have prepared a program of children's classes, life-saving and water safety, water ballet, competitive swimming and leadership training.

Open pool periods have been scheduled also, with family swims three times a week and adult swims during the noon hour, the after-work hour and evenings. Full information about membership and swimming periods may be obtained from the "Y".

COMMENCEMENT

At Miss Fine's, diplomas will be given to 21 seniors next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. This will be the 60th annual commencement for the school. Dr. Anthony Raubitschek of the classics department, Princeton University, will deliver the commencement address.

FAMILIAR AND WELCOME SIGHT: Harold M. Hinkson (left) kept a perfect record Saturday when he was present for the start of the annual Memorial Day parade—an event he has not missed at any time while in Princeton for the last 40 years. Recovering from a serious lung operation, he was on hand to help the 1959 parade begin its march up Nassau Street. Son "Pete" (whose graduation from college several years ago was the only occasion that caused Mr. Hinkson to miss a parade here) is another well-known member of Princeton Post 76. Fencing Match

Should Township swimming pools be fenced in? And if so, what is a fence and does every pool owner really need to have one?

Township Committee is expected to announce Monday night what action it plans to take on swimming pool fences. But the question is not simple.

What, for example, is a proper fence? Township police say that a four-foot fence is adequate. But does this mean chicken-wire, sturdy saplings or lattice which might offer a ready-made ladder to small climbers?

There is also the problem of location. Does a pool in the middle of a 100-acre estate need to be fenced in like a pool in the middle of a neighborhood where the density of children is high? These points and many others must be considered and resolved before a fencing ordinance can be drawn up.

Incidentally, Township police report 28 permits for pools since January, 1957. Of these, 21 are fenced in, 14 of them "properly fenced" — that is, surrounded by fences four feet high.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN? According to a recent Gallup Poll, fewer than half of those questioned were aware that Sen. Jack Kennedy, a Democratic Presidential hopeful, is a Roman Catholic. Detective George J. Knowles (left) thinks this indicates that most people are no longer interested in a Presidential candidate's religion, while Mrs. Jeanne Quigley sees the poll results as evidence that many Americans don't pay sufficient attention to their newspapers. (Staff Photo).

Question of the Week

Question: Fewer than half of those interviewed in a recent Gallup Poll knew that Senator Kennedy is a Catholic. What does this indicate to you?

Where asked: Around town.

Mrs. Mary Samuels, 15 Maple Street, housewife: I guess it means that people haven't been reading the newspapers because the issues have certainly been brought up again and again.

William McCandless, 309 Snowden Lane, sales engineer: I think the survey reveals two basic issues. First of all, it might indicate a certain negation of the feeling which existed when Al Smith ran for the Presidency. Perhaps the religion of a candidate no longer impresses the public. Second, the survey's result could also mean that the campaign hasn't begun yet and all the major issues have not yet been brought to light.

Mrs. Jane T. Shaw, 133 Galbreath Drive, housewife: I think it indicates that people just aren't paying attention; they seem to be unaware of the fact that this is a big issue in the coming election. It also might mean that people no longer care what a candidate's religion is; they are basing their judgments on his performance alone.

George J. Knowles, 232 Hamilton Avenue, detective, Borough police department: It would indicate that they don't care about a man's religion. Nowadays people are just interested in whether or not a man can do a job.

John M. Fenton, Jr., Assistant Editor, Gallup Poll, 130 Spruce Street: In itself, the finding is primarily a measure of how much voters know about one possible Presidential candidate — and not really a comment on the present state of religious tolerance. Presumably, if Senator Kennedy were nominated, most voters would become aware of his religion by the time election day rolled around. What is important, therefore, in trying to judge the possible reaction of those people who currently don't know Senator Kennedy is a Catholic when they do become aware of this fact. In the Southern states, for example, where the greatest opposition to a Catholic Presidential nominee exists, the fact of the Senator's Catholicism is less widely known than in other parts of the nation.

Lillian Scott, Section Head Assistant at ETS, 139 Spruce Street: It would appear that in not knowing this fact, which will have a great bearing on Senator Kennedy's future political plans, that on other issues of political importance they must also be little informed. Indeed, this is not a compliment to the general public as mature people with a tremendous responsibility which requires knowledge and understanding of national as well as international life and the people that will mold it.

Mrs. George Jennings, 191 Birch Avenue, laundress: I don't think it means too much. I guess people no longer care what a person's religion is. That doesn't matter — it's the type of man he is and the kind of job he'll do if he's elected that's important.

Joseph Sweeney, 8 Dickinson Street, university proctor: Senator Kennedy is a good man and it doesn't make any difference to most people what his religion is.

Robert Mills, 150 Prospect Avenue, physicist at the university: If the figure is higher than 50 percent, then it would indicate to me that it's a fairly well known fact. I remember one time when a political survey outfit did a study of people's knowledge of earth satellites. They made two studies: one before the Russians launched their satellite, and the other following all the publicity concerning sputnik. Before the launching, only 10 percent of our population even knew what a satellite was; after the launching and after all that publicity, only 12 percent knew what a satellite was!

Mrs. Jeanne Quigley, 163 Washington Road, Penns Neck, housewife: They obviously don't even read their political columns. Everybody who is at all well-informed certainly knows he's a Catholic, whether it makes any difference to them or not.

Religion In Politics

In the 1928 Presidential election, Al Smith, the Democratic candidate, made one of the worst showings at the polls in the history of democratic balloting in the United States. The overwhelming defeat of the highly-popular New York governor has been laid by many analysts chiefly to the fact that he was a Roman Catholic.

For the first time since that fateful election day in 1928, a Roman Catholic, Senator Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts, is a serious contender for the Democratic Presidential nomination. If the voters really did rebuff Governor Smith because of his religion, have they changed in 30 years? In short, could Senator Kennedy, or any other Catholic become President today?

To find out, the Democrats fell back recently on the politician's modern weathervane, the public opinion poll, and the results of the nationwide survey were stunning; more than half of those queried were unaware that Kennedy was a Catholic. Does this mean that religion is no longer a political issue, or is it simply evidence that most people are uninformed about current events? Princetonians, residents of the nation's "pollingest" community, analyze the pollster's findings on this page.

HIGH ON THE HOG

Boy Raises Pigs. In 1955, when 12-year-old Warren Elmer was a little boy, he teased his father to let him take over a corner of the Elmer farm so that he could raise pigs for fun and profit.

His father, also named Warren, let him tease for quite a while in order to test the sincerity and steadfastnesses of his desire. Then one day, he said sure, you can raise pigs if you want to but you've got to do all the work yourself and buy the pigs out of your own profits, and yaung Warren said gee, that's great — I'll do all the work myself, honest I will, and that very April he bought his first litter of pigs from Dr. Cornelio Jaynes, the veterinarian.

PIGGY BANK: Warren Elmer is a young Province Line Road farmer who raises pigs when he can spare the time away from academic chores at Princeton Country Day School. He feeds, fattens and cleans his pigs so they will bring a good market price at the butcher's next fall and his piggy bank is now almost as fat as his livestock.

Since that spring, young Warren has bought, raised and sold three pigs every year, earning about $400, the respect of his father, the wary, cupboard-affection of the pigs and the patronage of gourmets who relish the tender, uncoerced hams that the pigs unwittingly produce.

Warren buys the piglets when they are eight weeks old. From April until the middle of October, he takes care of them in a small pen behind the Elmer's barn on Province Line Road. Then, when they are at their prime, he takes them to a butcher in Hopewell who prepares them for their grand entrance as hams in the Rosedale Lockers.

Each pig averages 260 pounds, dressed weight, and Warren collects about 32 cents a pound. The pigs are exceptionally tender because they are kept in the pen for six months and not allowed to engage in such muscle-building activity as rooting for acorns.

Warren feeds them a special mash plus everything the Elmer family does not eat. Mrs. Elmer keeps a "pot au feu" on the back of her stove into which she dumps potato peelings, abandoned vegetables, meat scraps and the like. When the pot begins to get too rich for the Elmer's kitchen, she cooks what it contains and Warren takes it out to the pigs.

"Pigs will eat anything except coffee grounds, cigarette butts and orange peel," Warren says.

"Sometimes that cooked pig food looks right tasty," says Mrs. Elmer.

No Trouble At All. Pigs are easy animals to care for. When Warren gets the young pigs, they have already been inoculated against pig cholera and tetanus and they never seem to contract any other diseases. At least, Warren has never had a sick pig.

They do need a great deal of water, especially in hot weather, because they have no sweat glands. Keeping wet is the only way they have of keeping cool, and this, says Warren, is the reason pigs lie in mud puddles.

The great sport in the Elmer family is squirting pigs with the hose in hot weather. It tends to cool off Elmers as well as pigs because the hose acts in a wayward manner from time to time.

The pig pen does have to be cleaned, and Warren does this about twice a month.

"I put disinfectant down in a puddle and the pigs go right to it," Warren says. "They seem to know that's what they're supposed to do."

The money that Warren has earned from the sale of his pigs has not been specifically earmarked. It may be used toward college, or it may, with the blessing of his family, be used for some special vacation trip if the opportunity arises.

SELF-SERVICE DINER: That's "Slenderella" in the foreground and "Muscles" in the background. They are pigs and they are eating dinner from a special kind of self-feeder which they can operate themselves because pigs are intelligent animals. Just lift the door with your snout and plunge right in. Warren Elmer, who owns the pigs, is the one who fills the feeder. Further information on "Slenderella," "Muscles" and "Casper" (barely in view at left) in story on this page.

SOLUTIONS BY COMPUTER

Even for Cheese Spreads. The first electronic computer the public was aware of made its debut in a television studio the night of the presidential election 11 years ago. It couldn't be called an entirely successful performance, since it didn't pick the right man, but the computer survived the whispers of "political sabotage" and has come a long way towards shaping the future of the country.

There are few phases of our lives that haven't been mathematically determined for us. It may be hard to believe that it can be pressed into service as an electronic match-maker ("his" characteristics and "hers" determine marital bliss), but there are some uses on the lighter side of this robot primarily concerned with technological progress and national security. If the cheese on your cracker tastes good, spreads evenly and looks tempting, you may have a computer to thank rather than a cow.

But cheese is just an appetizer for the electronic brain that saves hours of experiment time and millions in costs in the development of aircraft and missiles, chemicals and petroleum, and the electric and electronic fields. In theory, it can conduct tests for the automotive industry that would cost millions through physical testing.

Electronic Associates, manufacturers of analog computers, established the first and now the largest computation center in the world in Princeton to aid industry and business in handling complex industrial and military problems. Here the most advanced problem solution equipment is available on a rental basis.

100 Seconds vs. 100 Years. The public by now has gotten used to the idea that a computer can tackle mathematical problems impossible to solve with pencil and paper and in a matter of seconds produce an answer that would take the proverbial 100 mathematicians 100 years. Still somewhat of a mystery to the layman may be how data to be fed the machine is selected.

This is what the application engineers at the Computation Center are prepared to do, to translate the problem into mathematical terms so that the formula simulating the components can be expressed by voltages. The problem must be able to be expressed by a set of mathematical equations which represent the relationships that exist between the physical variables of the subject.

A typical problem for the analog computer is in the designing of the pilot ejector seat for jet fighters. The problem is to throw the pilot free of the plane moving at high speed without applying more "G's" than he can stand, and to compensate for wind velocity, drift and the other forces brought to bear on him.

In the past, this sort of testing has been conducted in wind tunnels, with "dummies" and in the trial-and-error method of building models. Now, in addition, from these basic principles using physical laws and fundamentals, a mathematical statement of the problem is formulated.

The problem is then transferred to the computer. Voltage within the machine represent the variables of the physical problem. When they are combined according to the mathematical equations that describe the problem, it is possible to find a solution.

Depending upon the number of variables in the problem, the solution may be read at once or take several weeks to run. Solutions are read from graphs or on a plotting table or from tape.

Famed Bomb Sight Was First. The first concept of the modern computer, which is only ten or so years old, was the Norden bomb sight, that well-guarded secret of the last world war carried to the plane before each mission in the hand of the bombardier. The bomb sight was in effect an analog computer. Given certain information mathematically stated, such as speed of the plane, wind velocity, altitude and drift, the computer determined the actual path the bomb would take through space and the moment of release.

The Princeton Computation Center, housed in two buildings on U.S. Route 1, five miles east of Princeton, offers the services of its staff and equipment to every kind of institution with an engineering problem that can be expressed mathematically. Arthur Rubin, who heads a staff of engineers and scientists trained in a variety of fields, also conducts courses both for purchasers of the equipment and for engineers sharpened with the use of computers in their own industries. Classes are held for a two-week period and are open to university-trained engineers and scientists who have two or more years in a technical field, indicating that though the robot can think, solve and remember, a highly-trained human element is essential.

Electronic Associates has just developed a desk-size analog computer recommended for use in educational fields, in demonstrating basic chemical and physical concepts and to give the student "an insight into the fundamentals of science instead of becoming lost in a maze of calculations."

Push-Button Answers

With the development of a "desk size" analog computer life might be even more of a push-button affair, that is if we had the know-how to use it.

There are all sorts of worrying, everyday problems that, translated into mathematical formula, might be fed to an "electronic brain" for solution. If the physical problem can be simulated mathematically, the computer can come up with an answer.

Even human dynamics and response can be so described, which in itself presents staggering possibilities in smoothing the running of a household, a business or the family. Unfortunately, the new computer is hardly the kind of machine one is apt to class with household "labor saving devices," but it's comforting to know that most of the world's problems can be reduced to a set of figures.

The demand for such equipment in the modern-day world is wholly apparent: It takes no mathematical know-how or the aid of a computer to understand the fact that Electronic Associates stock has increased 1525 per cent in five years.

Report from THE MAYOR

Schedule Change. This week's "Tell it to the Mayor!" session will be held as scheduled on Thursday, June 4, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. Next week's open house, however, will be held on Wednesday, June 10, during the usual hours and, of course, without an appointment.

This change in date will make it possible for the Mayor to accept the invitation of the Greater Trenton Council to participate in a meeting on community redevelopment at which the Governors of Pennsylvania and New Jersey will speak. Governor David Lawrence, while Mayor of Pittsburgh, had a major role in the vast changes made in that important city. All of us must be concerned with the special problems of our older communities; and the experience of others may point to some helpful ideas for meeting our own needs.

Meeting the Landlord. As most residents know, the Borough of Princeton does not "own" Borough Hall and the land on which it is situated. The local government is fortunate to use this beautiful site for its "home" through the provisions of the will of the late Josephine Ward Thomson Swann.

The Borough has been maintaining the Thomson Hall building, although this has meant the investment of considerable sums in recent years for a building that has become inadequate to the Borough's needs. Mayor and Council have been reluctant to consider any major additions or alterations to property that is not Borough-owned; so last week Borough officials sat down with the trustees of the estate for a constructive exchange of views about the future use of the property. Borough Attorney McCarthy has been given the assignment of reviewing the Borough's legal status and helping to clarify our role in the future when major funds may be spent in developing adequate facilities for the various Borough departments.

On the Calendar. During the past week, the Mayor also met with the Princeton Hospital Board and with its personnel committee; with the Borough's Safety Committee under Magistrate Tams' chairmanship; and enjoyed a very full schedule of community events in connection with the traditional Memorial Day observance. Post 76 of the American Legion is to be commended for organizing the parade and ceremonies at the Battle Monument. The Khufu Temple offered COLUMNS GOING UP: Mrs. Walter Edge, widow of the former governor, uses a gold shovel to turn over the first spadeful of earth at Princeton Battlefield, where the 19th century portico from the Maxwell house will be erected. An American Legion color guard was present for the Memorial Day ceremony, and Professor Sherley Morgan, chairman of Princeton's Department of Art and Architecture, is at Mrs. Edge's right. Professor Morgan said Mrs. Edge had assured him that her husband would have been enthusiastic about efforts to find a permanent site for the architecturally-important columns.

Princeton a parade "doubleheader" with its festivities in the afternoon. Earlier, Mrs. Walter Edge removed the first spadeful of earth at the Princeton Battlefield to signal the beginning of construction of the special memorial to the soldiers of the American Revolution buried there; and flowers were placed near the gravesite. Certainly the community could echo the comment of Don Griffin that Memorial Day has in fact become one of the most significant community observances.

the equivalent of a self-portrait of the famous naturalist, will be on display this Summer in the Main Exhibition Gallery of Princeton University's Firestone Library. The exhibit, which will be open to the public, is entitled "The World of John James Audubon."

Designed to show "the vivid human being behind the now legendary name," the exhibit portrays Audubon not only as a naturalist and artist but also as a prolific writer, a traveler and an acute observer of the American and European scenes. It traces the main episodes in Audubon's life from his birth in the French West Indies in 1785 to his death in New York in 1851.

Included in the exhibit are the library's collections of Audubon's drawings, manuscripts, prints and books, as well as several dozen loan items from individual collectors and other institutions. Among the latter is a muzzle-loading, percussion-cap shotgun carried by Audubon on his field trips, which was loaned by John S. Williams, Princeton '24.

A central feature in the display is Princeton's copy of the celebrated "elephant folio" of Audubon's "Birds of America," which incindes 435 engravings of life-sized birds on pages measuring well over a yard in height and more than two feet in width. This copy once belonged to Stephen Van Rensselaer, Princeton 180, and was presented to the university in 1927 by his grandson, Alexander Van Rensselaer, Princeton 1871.

Special emphasis is given in the exhibit to Audubon's technique of drawing birds "alive and moving" instead of "stiff, unmeaning profiles." His system of drawing birds from freshly-shot specimens wired into lifelike poses is described in a collection of his published and unpublished letters. Other materials in the exhibit recount Audubon's field trips throughout the United States and Europe.

The following members have been elected to the executive committee: R. L. Van Cleve, Charles R. Erdman, Jr., James G. Campbell, Jr., Edward G. Warren, B. E. Bergesen, Jr. and, as honorary member, B. Franklin Bunn.

JOINT LIBRARY USE

Urged By County Library. The establishment of a countywide library federation has been recommended by the Mercer County Library Commission in its annual report to the Board of Freeholders. The public libraries involved would be those in Princeton, Pennington, Hopewell, Hamilton Township, and Trenton and the County Library.

The federation proposed by the County Library Commission would provide for the free use of all public library facilities by the residents of the participating communities, plus the centralized ordering and processing of books. The advantages of such a federation, the commission said, would be twofold: Greater service to the public resulting from reciprocal borrowers' privileges and "substantial dollar savings" to each library made possible through centralized purchasing and cataloging of books.

Arrangements for such a library federation, the commission said, would be made through an annual contract between the governing bodies of the participating municipalities. Authority for such a step, according to the commission, is contained in the Library Federation Act signed by Governor Meyner in 1956.

Under such an arrangement, the commission stated, "The separate identity of each library would be retained and the local boards of trustees would retain control in all other matters. The contract providing for these joint services could be altered or terminated at the end of any year."

The County Library Commission also reported that the establishment last September of a Branch in the Ewing Shopping Center had proved a successful move. A total of 1,755 new borrowers were registered from time of the Branch's opening until the end of the year, and the present circulation rate is 1,500 volumes per week.

SCHOLARS IN THE FIELD?

Not During School Hours. Children under 16 may not work on farms during school hours. With the coming of spring, New Jersey farmers have been reminded by the U.S. Department of Labor that child labor during school hours is prohibited by the Fair Labor Standards Act.

However, the Act allows children of any age to work on farms after school or during vacation. These child-labor provisions apply to farmers whose crops go, directly or indirectly, into interstate or foreign commerce, crops such as asparagus, spinach, blueberries or strawberries.

Labor Department spokesmen suggest that farmers ask for an age certificate from any prospective employee. Minors may obtain these certificates from public school officials or from the superintendent of schools in the community where the minor lives.

PHS NINE SUCCESSFUL

Completes Fine 10-6 Season. Winning two of its last three games, including a 6-5 decision over highly-regarded Somerville, Princeton High School's baseball team last week completed a highly-satisfactory season. Better than that, the Little Tigers are already looking ahead to next year because so many key players from the present outfit will be on hand again. Hopes are that this season's good 10-6 mark will be left behind in 1960.

An extra-inning defeat at the hands of Steinert High School marked the first of three games the Little Tigers played last week on consecutive days. They took a 3-2 lead into the fifth, fell back to a 3-3 deadlock in the next round and shoved across another tally to go one up in the top of the eighth.

However, Steinert won with a two-run rally in its half of the eighth, as relief pitcher Jack Hawkins took the loss. Jack Lackey, who started on the mound for PHS, and left fielder Ray Cranston each got two of the Little Tigers' nine hits.

Matters took a turn for the better on Thursday when Ewing's Blue Devils were defeated in a postponed contest, 2 to 1. Bruce Sandvick, one of three pitchers Coach Harry Zoll has found good enough this season to use at other positions when not on the mound, hurled a gaudy three-hitter.

Hawkins Triples. Sandvick got the victors their first run when he walked to open the third, moved up on a sacrifice and scored as Hawkins laced out a triple. Ewing evened matters in the next inning but the bottom of the fourth saw PHS produce the winning tally.

With one away, Bill Weissenburger tripled to right center. Archie Freeman's line single past second chased him home and that was all Sandvick needed.

The Little Tigers hurler had a close call in the last round, after retiring nine in a row. Ewing's Pete Sapnar reached third on a lead-off single and an error. Sandvick retired the next two batters on third-to-first plays, with Sapnar holding third. The Ewing runner then tried to steal home to tie the score but was tagged out at the plate by catcher Weissenburger.

Rally Trims Somerville. Jack Lackey (See "We Congratulate") gave one of his best performances as he pitched and batted Princeton High to a 6-5 triumph over Somerville Friday afternoon. His two-out bases-loaded single in the eighth scored the winning run over the powerful Pioneers, who came into the contest with a fine 12-1 mark.

The visitors pried four runs away from Lackey in the first two innings, but he settled down thereafter and allowed only one more while fanning an even dozen batters. Meanwhile, PHS staged an uphill fight to drew even by the time the regulation contest ended and then broke up the game in the eighth on Lackey's infield hit to deep second.

Four members of the squad are seniors: Weissenburger, Ed Green, Arnie Skaar and Dick Bassett. Key players returning include Lackey, Sandvick, Hawkins, Boyd Bergen, Archie Freeman, Rich Hurford, Dick Olson, John Rogerson and Charlie Warshefski.

STATE MEET SATURDAY

PHS Trackmen Will Enter. Coach Winfield Niles will enter ten members of his Princeton High School track team Saturday in the New Jersey State Interscholastic Track Championships at Rutgers Stadium, New Brunswick. The Little Tigers finished their regular season with a 5-3 record in dual competition.

Entrants will include runners Wyn Jennings, Bob Cooper, Lamont Fletcher and Jerry Cypress. Princeton High will be represented in the field events by Roger Nicoll, Jack Copeland, Steve Hines, Ridgely Applegate, Howard Gould and Joe Beachel.

Princeton finished fifth in Group III last Saturday in the 13th annual Central Jersey Track and Field Championships at Asbury Park. The Little Tigers ran up a point score of 15, paced by Fletcher, who placed second in the low hurdles and fifth in the high hurdles, and Applegate, who finished fourth in the shot put and fifth in the discus throw.

Other Princetonians who placed in their events were Jennings, fourth in the 220-yard dash; Cooper, fifth in the 440, and Nicoll, second in the pole vault.

Solid Electioneering

When Eddie Donovan arrived at the meeting last week in Scranton, Pa., at which the NCAA District II baseball team was to be selected, Carl Belz's name wasn't even on the list of nominees. When he left, Carl Belz was the District II choice as first baseman.

In between, the soft-spoken Tiger coach did some solid electioneering for his man. He informed the other coaches that Belz was hitting a fine .317, and that he was "as good a man with the glove as anybody in the East."

Coaches from Delaware, Army and other teams that Princeton had played this season agreed on Belz's defensive know-how. His work at the plate spoke for itself, and after the other first basemen whose names had come up for consideration before Carl were eliminated one by one, the 6-5 Tiger was named to the all-star team from the New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland area.

EDMUNDS BREAKS RECORD

And Ties NCAA Mark. Shaving an impressive two-fifths of a second off his Princeton record, Dick Edmunds ran 440 yards in 47 seconds Friday during a time-trial in the IC4-A Championships at New York's Randall's Island. His fine performance broke his University record of 47.4, set as a freshman last year, and tied an IC4-A mark that was first set 27 years ago.

A pair of Olympic runners from this country, Bill Carr of Pennsylvania and John Woodruff of Pittsburgh, had chalked up 47-second quarter-miles in IC4-A competition. Woodruff accomplished the feat in each of the three years he ran in the late 'thirties, so that Edmunds' time was only the fifth that fast in this major intercollegiate event.

Fame is fleeting, however, and next day the mark that had stood since 1932 was eclipsed. Basil Ince of Tufts, the more impressive because he ran around two turns in the championship final, was clocked in 46.9 seconds.

Ince won by seven yards, with Edmunds third. The Tiger sophomore was credited with a 48.2 quarter and despite the defeat, had added to his stature as possible Olympic material in 1960.

BELZ GOES AFTER YALE

Seeks Sixth Victory. With one team pegged at .500 and the other mired in one of its worst seasons in years, little attention would normally be paid the Princeton-Yale baseball game at New Haven this Saturday. The Tigers have won nine out of 14 and finished fifth in the Eastern League, the Elis were a dead last (1-8) in the circuit and have compiled one of the poorest records in the east.

Considerable interest, however, will center around the chance that red-headed Herm Belz will have to write his name in the record books this week and next. He has faced the Elis six times, has beaten them on five occasions and the other meeting ended in a deadlock when rain prevented further play.

If the 6-3 righthander can top the Bulldogs this Saturday and again when the annual commencement game is staged here on June 13, he will hang up a record that seems certain to last for years in Yale-Princeton history. Complete figures for the rivalry that began in far-away 1867 are not at hand, but it is a virtual certainty that no one pitcher ever racked up seven victories in this traditional series. Actually, chances are good that five triumphs for one man constitutes a record.

Unless the fielding falls apart, expectations are that the Tigers will win both contests handily. Although none too impressive at the plate, they have four hitters (Captain Dick Edie, Carl Belz, Mike Ippolito, Elmer Naples) all above .300. The outfield, bolstered by the elevation of sophomore Jack Sullivan to a starting berth, is defensively as good as Princeton has had in many years.

With Ippolito in left, Edie in center and Sullivan in right, the Tigers have speed, solid judgment and three good arms. All of them have doubled runners at the plate this season, Sullivan nailing a Fordham player Saturday to get Joe Burns out of a bases-loaded, one-out situation.

Burns Pitches Well. Red Joe Burns seems set to complete his career as one of Princeton's "forgotten pitchers—" those who had clear-cut ability but were prevented by a variety of circumstances from reaching the front rank. Each season, participation in basketball has prevented him from getting an early start in mound practice, and each year he has been overshadowed by such other members of the staff as Leigh Ford, Ed Seaman and Herm Belz.

Obviously short of work at the outset of this season, he was pounded hard a couple of times, Belz, ace of the Tiger pitching department, got the league assignments, and it was essential in most other games for Coach Eddie Donovan to see what junior Dave Douglas and sophomore Wally Phillips could do under pressure.

But Burns hung in there, coming up with solid relief performances against Rutgers and Delaware, and then getting another starting assignment last Saturday against Fordham. The Rams invariably managed to hold their own in the tough Metropolitan Conference, but Red Joe trimmed them, 4-2, and would have had a shutout with adequate support afield.

Carl Belz drove in the first two Princeton runs in the opening round, lining a sharp single to right with Steve Locks on third and Edie at second. Misplays around the keystone sack gave Fordham a pair of unearned runs in the fifth, but the Tigers got them back in their half of the sixth.

Singles by Ippolito, Sullivan and Bob Mystik filled the bases and Naples' bounder through the box and into centerfield scored two. The sophomore catcher has done a great job at bat and behind the plate since winning the starting berth and is a fixture for two more seasons.

Meanwhile Burns kept Fordham in check, scattering seven hits and bearing down in the pinches. A ball that bounced over Mystik's head for a single and was followed by another base blow put the tying runs aboard in the ninth but Dick Edie made a fine running catch to end the game.

AMERICAN LOOP WINS, 4-3

In Midget All-Star Game. Sparked by John Provenzano's home run, the American League edged the National League, 4-3, in the annual YMCA Midget League All-Star Game on Memorial Day. Both squads displayed excellent defenses, with Al Toto and Bob Decker contributing a triple play for the National League in the second inning.

American League pitchers were John Freeman, Chuck Housner, Jeff Lowe, Raymond Stone and Chip Norton, while Tony Trani,

JACK LACKEY

New PHS Baseball Captain

In the bottom of the first extra inning at Princeton High School last Friday, the Little Tigers and Somerville were deadlocked at 5-all. With the bases loaded and two men out, Princeton's 16-year-old southpaw hurler, Jack Lackey, who had fanned 12 Somerville batters in the game, stepped to the plate, singled in the winning run and won himself his seventh victory in nine outings this season.

The occasion provided an outstanding, but not unusual, showcase for the twin abilities —reliable, varied pitching and .300-plus hitting — that have catapulted Lackey, a junior, into the top ranks of scholastic baseball stardom. His teamates showed their appreciation this week by electing him captain of the squad for 1960.

"We haven't been up against a pitcher as good as this boy all year long," commented Coach Harry Zoll, who gives Jack much of the credit for the team's 10-6 record this spring. "He's always had an excellent fast ball and slider, and this year he's developed a very good curve and knuckle ball."

Furthermore, Jack, (son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lackey of 222 North Harrison Street) is a good team player. "There's none of the big-star stuff about him," the coach said. "When it comes to practice, he's always the first one down on the ball diamond; he's always trying to improve. You can see the esteem I have for him."

Zoll believes Jack's best-pitched game was his 1-0 shutout of Long Branch, during which the 5-foot, 10-inch, 165-pound lefthander gave up only two scratch hits. The only opponents to beat Lackery were Trenton High (1-0) and Trenton Catholic (7-3). As a sophomore last year, Jack compiled a 4-3 record.

Coach Zoll is looking forward with anticipation to next year's season, when his entire starting nine will be composed of returning veterans. The leader of this team, which may be one of the finest in Princeton High's athletic history, will be Jack Lackey, who from here on in will be competing chiefly with his own previous performances. This prospect should be an unsettling one for opposition coaches.

LEGION TEAM READY

For First Home Game. University Field will be the setting on Saturday for the first home game to be played by Princeton's entry in the Mercer County American Legion Junior Baseball League. Game-time is 1:45. The team sponsored by Princeton Post 76 was scheduled to open its season Wednesday against Hightstown Post 148 on the Peddie School diamond.

With Brokaw Field in process of conversion from a baseball diamond to tennis courts, the Post 76 team will play most of its games on University Field. The alternate site is the Princeton High School diamond.

Players from the high school and Hun School varsities constitute the Princeton squad. Dick Olsen and Bruce Sandvik will divide the pitching assignments, while other members are Archie Freeman, Garry Grover, Lew Wood, John Rogerson, Bill Weissenburger, Rick Hurford, Miles Trueswell, Ray Cranmston, Jim Farley, Charlie Kinyon, Ed King, Boyd Bergen, Gil Fisher and Frank Black.

JUNIOR BASEBALL PLANNED

Four Teams Will Play. Boys 12 to 15 will again have the opportunity to participate in the Princeton Community Junior Baseball League this summer. The league, sponsored by the Playgrounds Committee and directed by B. E. Bergesen, will include four teams with 18 players each.

Boys who played in the league last year and who have not reached their 16th birthday will remain with the same team. A draft will be held by managers this month to select new players, many of whom will come up from the YMCA Midget League.

Last year's sponsors, all of whom are expected to continue, were the Nassau Oil Co., L. C. Bowers and Sons Construction Co., Matthews Construction Co. and the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. Last year's championship was won by the Matthews team, coached by Robert Sinkler.

NEW LEAGUE PLANNED

For Boys 13 and 14. Boys 13 and 14, too old for the YMCA's Midget League, are invited to an organizational meeting at 9 a.m. on Saturday at the Valley Road field, where teams will be selected for the "Y's" spring baseball league. The league will run until July 1.

Regular games will be scheduled every Wednesday evening from 6:15 to 8:30 at the Valley Road field. The league will be supervised by members of the "Y's" Men's Club, including Alfred Kilgour and Glen Lengnick. Other fathers interesting in helping with league activities should contact the "Y's" youth director, Walter Sorg. No registration fee will be charged to players.

TENNIS SCHEDULE LISTED

By Playgrounds Committee. The Playgrounds Committee, an agency of the United Community Fund, will sponsor a junior tennis tournament at the university courts for two weeks beginning June 15, to be followed by senior tourneys in July and August. A tournament director will be named this month by the committee, which is headed by Ellis C. Willard.

Entries for the boys', junior boys' and junior girls' tournaments, as well as for men's and women's singles and doubles, will be accepted at the YMCA office. An entry fee of $1 is charged for the adult tournament, while the junior events are free.

In all tournaments, entrants must supply three new tennis balls. Trophies will be presented to winners and runners-up. One hundred seventy persons took part in the 1958 tournaments.

Winners were Alan Tucker, junior boys; David Smoyer, boys; Nancy Smoyer, junior girls; James Cryan, men's singles; Mrs. W. Pepper Constable, women's singles; Dr. H. Yale Tyler and Irwin Vas, men's doubles; and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Smoyer, mixed doubles.

The mixed doubles event will not be held this year. Members of the community tennis advisory committee are Michael C. Kopliner Sr., Dr. Paul R. Chesebro and A. Caryl Bigelow Jr.

BOWLING NOTES

Jefferson Wins in "B" Loop. Jefferson Plumbing, the first and third round winner, beat National Guard in the final rolloff last week to annex the "B" League crown at Princeton Recreation Center. The triumph ended the Guardsmen's three-year domination of the league.

In the "A" League rolloff, Shelton Motors became champion by defeating Tiger Garage, the first-round victor. Tiger Garage missed winning the league title for the first time since 1955. Finishing behind Shelton (69) in the league's second round were Farr Meet Dean Gordon. "Undergraduates think I'm a moralizer and an old tyrant," says Ernest Gordon, Dean of Princeton University's Chapel. "Actually, I'm just very much concerned about young people.

"I like working with them. They pop in to see me all the time and I feel, actually that they have been sold short in a way: the sociologists and the statisticians don't give them much. But my direct personal experience indicates that there is much more hope for youth than people would have you believe."

Princeton's Dean of the Chapel has served undergraduates since he was called to his post in June, 1955, following a scant year on the campus as the Presbyterian Chaplain on the Westminster Foundation.

In his walnut-panelled study overlooking the campus, Dean Gordon sees about two dozen undergraduates a week, young men who come to him with the eternal problems of youth: what is the meaning of life? what is the significance of the human personality? what can I believe in times like these?

The War Prisoner. Dean Gordon's own background and experience give a rich depth of meaning to the discussions he holds with undergraduates. A native of Scotland, Dean Gordon served as captain in the Argyll and Sutherland Highlandera during World War II.

He was wounded in Malaya, and when Singapore fell, he escaped to Sumatra. Here he organized an escape service which rescued over 1500 wounded soldiers, nurses, women and children. When Sumatra was captured by the Japanese, he escaped again, this time in a sailboat with eight other fugitives.

After 24 days on the Indian Ocean, with Ceylon less than 600 miles away, he and his companions were captured by the Japanese Navy. For the next three and one-half years, he worked on the "Railway of Death" between Thailand and Burma, serving his fellow prisoners as unofficial chaplain, and organizing a "prison university".

It was during this period that Ernest Gordon reached his decision to enter the ministry. When he returned to civilian life, he resumed his studies of philosophy, theology, and history, studies which he had pursued at St. Andrews in the years before his graduation in 1939. He studied at Edinburgh and London Universities, Hartford Theological Seminary and Glasgow University, and was ordained as minister of the Church of Scotland in 1950.

Following his ordination, he served for three years as deputy minister of the 12th century Paisley Abbey in Scotland. After coming to this country, he preached in various churches in Long Island and then accepted the call to Princeton.

Future Plans. The tall, smiling Dean retains the burr of Scotland in his speech. He and Mrs. Gordon, who comes from Argyleshire, plan to return to Scotland this summer for the first time in three years. Their daughter, Gillian, 9, and their son, Alister, 7, will accompany them.

"We sail from Montreal," says the Dean, "in a Scottish ship which gives you first class at the tourist rate."

There is broad Scottish hospitality in the open house the Gordons hold for Princeton students. "We have one dinner each week for about 10 students," Dean Gordon says, "but actually, I'm always bringing students back to the house for a meal and a talk."

Dean Gordon also meets the whole freshman class in the first three months of the fall semester, lunching or dining with them and trying to know them all.

"I believe strongly in emphasizing the personal," Dean Gordon says. "There is tremendous hunger for this in the world and anything else takes second place with me. As for my future — the future is to keep going!"

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL ON CAMPUS: "I haven't noticed anything staggering," says Dean Ernest Gordon of the University Chapel. "There is a certain open-mindedness, true, but I'm not so optimistic as many people are on this subject. Princeton University has a great deal to give a boy, assuming he comes from a sensible background and knows how to take advantage of what the University offers." The Dean is now doing a study on undergraduate life and attitudes.

Hardware (61), Tiger Garage and Knights of Columbus (62 each).

The league's outstanding individual games were posted by Mike Plumeri, 236; Phil Wesp, 225; Nick Scalerai, 203-223; Dick Edwards, 212; Vince Trogg, 211; Lindsay Crawford, 209; Rudy Ehart, 201, and Joe Ruberto, 202.

The recreation center will be closed Thursday through Sunday for refinishing of the bowling lanes.

SPORTSMEN STILL LEAD

After Winning First Four. The unbeaten Sportsmen's Club will face runner-up Sannino's this Thursday evening at 6:15 on Goldie Field, with first place in the Community Softball League at stake. The pace-setters are 4-0 in the standings, with Sannino's 3-1.

Cenerino's A.C. has won one of four games, while Pete and Mike's has dropped its first four starts. The two second-division outfits face each other Thursday on Poe Field, resuming action after Tuesday's rainouts.

Harry Kahny lost his string of 21 scoreless innings when the Sportsmen and Cenerino's clashed last week, the latter entry showing a run across in the first round. Mack Brockington, making his first start of the 1959 season here, hurled six rounds of shutout ball for Cenerinos before the Sportsmen teed off on him for three runs in the final inning.

Pete and Mike's enjoyed the biggest inning of the season against Sannino's when it jammed seven runs across in the first inning. Sam Lisi was relieved after retiring only one batter by Lou DiMeglio, who stayed around to pick up the victory.

His mates scored twice in the second and added five more in the third to draw even. Four in the fifth and a final tally in the sixth wrapped up the 12-7 decision. Tom Procaccino was the losing hurler.

CLARKSVILLE WINS

Now 2-0 in Girls' Softball. An 11-3 triumph over ETS gave the Clarksville Diner its second win in as many games in the Girls' Softball League. Sandy Bertrand was the winning pitcher, while the victors' attack was paced by Joan Carrier (four for four) and Joyce Anderson (three for four). Marlene Bullock collected two hits in three at bats for ETS.

Joyce Spain hit a home run in the last inning to break up a tie game and give the Thorne Pharmacy an 8-7 win over Town Topics. The losers had rallied for three runs in the sixth to deadlock the seesaw contest. Madeline Donaldson was the winner and Ginny Mershon the loser.

Red Cross Is Wrong

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The Red Cross is, I believe, in error when it attributes its recent failure to reach its goal to the timing of the United Fund's invitation. After participating in many drives in the past six years, I am convinced that it is increasingly hard for a contributor to judge the relative needs of various organizations, and that to many people the Red Cross is now just one more drive.

To me, the Red Cross seems large and complex enough to stand alone, but that fact should not be used as an excuse by lesser organizations for not joining the United Fund. Many who gave to the recent Mental Health campaign did so in part as a gesture of gratitude that this would be its final independent drive. Campaign workers will be increasingly hard to recruit as even the most civic-minded housewives decide that it is embarrassing as well as inefficient to work on these nearly continuous drives.

Due Respect Needed

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I watched the parade on Memorial Day, and appreciated the time and effort required to produce it, but I was much annoyed by the "army" of small boys on bicycles, darting in and out through the line of march, in front, back, crosswise, etc.

Let them be in the parade if they wish, but in an orderly manner, and may they be taught to understand and respect the significance and meaning of the occasion in reverence to our war heroes.
